The McKinney Kiwanis Club held its second meeting of 1956 on January 12 and the ladies of the First Methodist Church presented their usual excellent dinner for the large turnout. The attendance Committee is very happy over the way the new year has begun in percentage of members present, and is working hard to keep this record rolling through the year. Another bright spot has been the large number of members participating in inter-club meetings, with Inter-Club Chairman Gene Hays arranging trips throughout the district at the average of three per week. These inter-club trips build up points toward winning the number one spot among the clubs in the Red River district for McKinney, a goal the club is striving to attain for Lt. Gov. C. L. "The Coach Keeps Punching" Article Concerns Local Boy

A recent issue of the Fort Worth Star Telegram carried a feature story by Herb Owens, sports writer concerning John (Cheeta) Davis White, a McKinney boy. The picture was White and Boxer David Moore, captioned "The Coach Keeps Punching."

The article headed White Overcomes 10-Count — "Stays in Ring" will be of interest to the young man's host of friends in McKinney where he was reared and graduated from Boyd High School.

Just where do you begin John (Cheeta) White's story? Do you start with the crowd roaring to its feet after a smashing championship punch? Or the tragedy? Or the mighty battle determination?

It's there. All of it. And it's jammed between just two flips of the calendar — two short years.

Cheeta White provided one of Texas Golden Gloves' most unforgettable moments when he won the 1954 middleweight championship on a tremendously final right-hand smash to the jaw of George Villa.

That paralyzing punch now has involved him in one of the great state tournament's all-time great upsets.

Villa, a squat, fiery-eyed Latin-American from El Paso, was tough. He, himself, had earlier participated in one of the most thrilling fights in the tournament history by outgunning Amarillo's Pete Perez. The next night he had become a "cinch" champion after eliminating the slugging Gene Stacy of Fort Worth.

White, everybody agreed, was being thrown to the lions.

It was practically unbelievable that Cheeta cut down Villa in the first round with a sizzling right cross to the jaw. Unhurt, Villa bounced back, the flame of conquest blazing hotter than ever.

But White had the answer and delivered it in Round Two. This was a right — straight from the shoulder and straight to the jaw. Villa collapsed. He made it to his feet at the six-count but spun to the canvas again and took the toll.

Here was the biggest blow in a decade, and realizing it, the crowd of 7,000 rose to thunder its acclaim before Villa officially became a knockout victim.

Cheeta ran to his corner, dropped to his knees in prayer, then embraced his coach while tears of elation drenched the pair.

This was Cheeta White in his most glorious moment.

Shortly after that he shot himself in a hunting accident. Most of his left leg was amputated.

Only the experience can tell how a young man, right out of college with a wife and baby and a career ahead of him feels without a leg.

Cheeta, who knew the paths of battle well, launched another, one which was to be the most vital, the most rugged and eventually, the most decisive of them all.

The battle lines were drawn even before he had quit his hospital bed. His shield was an artificial leg and a pair of crutches. His sword was whatever you might name it . . . spirit, desire, determination.

Out of bed, he learned to walk again. He returned to his job as a junior high school football coach at Weatherford. "Bad leg" and all, he once more showed boys how to do things he never would be able to do again — block and tackle and run with a football.

And he found his way back into the Golden Gloves, this time as a judge.

Now he's on his way back, as a judge once more, and also as a coach.

It's hard to keep a fighter on the ropes and because of his love for boxing, Cheeta is moving back into ring combat through the young men he is training.

He may not have been a champion this year, or the next, but Cheeta White's next ambition is to be responsible for one more gloved hand raised in victory.

H. C. Markel has returned to his home in Salina, Kansas, after a month's visit with his daughter Mrs. Bud Stoddard and family who reside on Route 2, McKinney.

Alla And Celina Cagers Split Friday Games

The Friday the 13th jinx grabbed holds of Alla lads and held tight as the Celina boys smashed to a 58 to 51 win on the Alla hardwoods Friday. The Alla lasses stormed to a 51 to 40 opener win for the second 40B district win against one loss.

FARM OPERATORS MUST PAY SOCIAL SECURITY TAX BEFORE APRIL 15, 1956

Self-employed farmers and ranchers can become eligible for insurance benefits under the social security law by mid-1956 if they have earned as much as $400 from farming in both calendar years 1955 and 1956.

Along with this goes the responsibility to report earnings from farming and pay the 3 percent social security tax not later than April 15, 1956. The Social Security Administration has suggested that payments be made as early as possible after January 1.

The form for making a report and remitting the required tax for social security insurance, Schedule SE, comes with the Federal Income Tax Return. From 1040, If your net earnings from farming were as much as $400 in 1955, you are obliged to fill out and file this return and pay the Social Security tax even if you do not owe any Federal income tax for 1955.

Older farmers—those 65 or over—can keep right on working and still start getting monthly old-age insurance payments if they have met the earnings requirements and paid their tax. Other farmers, regardless of age, will acquire family protection in the form of monthly payments to surviving dependents in the event of their death, provided they meet the same requirements.

In either case, the payment of the social security tax must accompany your income tax declaration or return. This responsibility is required by law.

Further information on social security taxes may be obtained at your nearest Internal Revenue Service office or from the County Agent's office. Information about benefits can be obtained from your social security district office. If you do not know where these offices are, your postmaster can tell you.

Food Promotions Scheduled for January.

You'll be hearing a lot about various perishable food items during January — Special promotions are scheduled to call consumer attention to plentiful supply and low price situations which mean good food buys.

The United States Department of Agriculture is giving special emphasis to beef from January 2nd to 8th — potatoes, January 9th to 15th — grapefruit, January 16 to 22nd — and pork and lard from January 23rd to 29th.

Meat industry promotions on pork are scheduled for January. The month is also being promoted as Egg Month by the Poultry and Egg National Boards.

There's a big promotion on citrus fruit under the name "Citrus For Winter Health" — which the citrus industry is sponsoring during the month, with its high point from January 19th to 28th.

Promotion of milk and other dairy products will continue — There are a number of other less widespread efforts scheduled for January — as well as the usual routine advertising of branded food products.

Watch the local markets for good food buys.

Now is a good time to take stock of your supply of sheets, towels and other household linens. Many department stores and shops offer excellent values in sheets, towels, table linens and other household cottons at this time. The "January white sale" has become an annual custom with many homemakers. For best values read the ads first, then read labels, and prices at stores and compare offerings.

Non-type fitted sheets save ironing and give greater comfort because their close fit makes them wrinkle less. But if the mattress is too thick, it may be hard to pull them on, causing extra wear and tear.

In recent surveys conducted among average homemakers it was found that proper use of the vacuum cleaner can save a housewife 140 hours of work per year and take out more than twice as much dirt as can be removed through other cleaning methods.

1955 CHRISTMAS
GREETINGS 1955
CHRISTMAS SEALS FIGHT TB ALL YEAR ROUND
IF YOU'VE ALREADY MAILED YOUR GIFT FOR SEALS SENT IN NOVEMBER —THANK YOU VERY MUCH

Opening the return envelopes for a Fund Drive is a warm and wonderful experience. First off, the generosity and of the opportunity afforded in America of giving. It comes in many varied shapes, sizes and forms. There's the checks which have been turned into the cheap, businesslike check for $25.00 from an industrial firm with a check which adds immeasurably to the balance which may have been lacking. There's the dollar bill sewn carefully into the envelope with a request for help and who have resigned to read the small checks themselves speak more than any words or figures could in many instances. Each of these contributions bears an individual message of good will, and in words. The letters themselves are sometimes illegible, and in spelling handicapped, but by pen, and but I send it with a prayer for the pencil. There are coins, too, which fall with a thud to the bottom of the envelope, or jangling loosely in the return envelope.

Thank you for the privilege of contributing to this worthy cause. One from Wylie said: "Enclosed find $2.00 to help the Tuberculosis Association. I am a shut-in myself and many many more are in need of the aid and opportunities of helping with a community fund drive. I know of knowing that kind of help and what response from the good people who make up the community."

The seal sale thus far has totalled $1,736, which is slightly behind receipts for this time last year. If you have not mailed your contribution in and not too late, and will be gladly and appreciated as for each piece of individual contribution.

Fence Installed For Playground At Merritt Homes

A new wire cyclone fence is being installed on the East side of the lot of the Merritt Homes, units of the McKinney Housing Authority. Installation of the fence began over the week-end and is expected to be completed within a few days. The fence is 6½ feet long.

Pat Sanders, executive secretary for the Housing Authority, is planning the installation of playground equipment within the near future. He also announces that playground equipment will be installed at the Owens Home, colored unit, of the Housing Authority.

WHAT . . . OTHERS SAY

WE NEED PRICE DANIELS IN TEXAS

Will Price Daniel run for the governorship of Texas in 1956?

That is a question being weighed heavily these days by avowed candidates for the post and still others who would like to know their intentions sooner or later depending on developments.

Senator Daniel looms large in these potential developments. Best bet, of course, remains that he would be mighty tough competition. Even his staunchest political opponents agree to that.

In our opinion we need more men like Price Daniel in public office. We need more than one Price Daniel in the U. S. Senate and every branch of government for that matter.

But above all we need Price Daniel in Texas. We need him as we have never needed him before.

We are confident that Price Daniel would bring harmony into the leading factions of Texas Democrats. We believe he has the ability to UNIFY Texas and lead us into the greatest era of growth and development we have ever known.

Price Daniel is not the only able prospect for the governorship. There are others, several others. But at the moment no one candidate is the logical one to lead Texas on the scene as broadly as does Price Daniel. His support is gaining ground. The number of Texans who would actually insist that he offer his services as Governor is growing throughout Texas on every level. Daily news reports bear that out.

Price Daniel has always been popular in Nacogdoches county. He has visited here on many occasions and spoken at several of our community events. We know of his outstanding record as attorney general and we have followed with pride and interest his great service in the U. S. Senate.

We realize that it would take some sort of sacrifice politically for Price Daniel to resign his seat in the Senate with four more years to go, and a second one opposed to run for Governor. It would mean that he would have to plunge into a hard-fought race for a four-year term as the governorship.

But, regardless of that, Price Daniel is the kind of man Texas needs right now to regain what we have lost in the Senate and in Washington. He is proving it every day in his campaign in the Senate to end the scandalous traffic and to enact other constructive legislation.

We believe sincerely that Texas can get Price Daniel to run for governor. He can, and will, if enough Texans let Price Daniel know that we NEED him in TEXAS and most lasting service. — THE DAILY SENTINEL, Nacogdoches, Texas

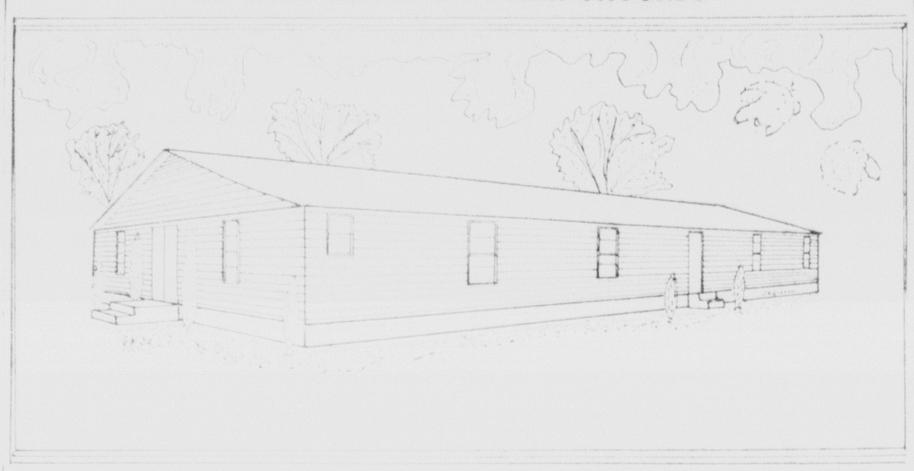
PROPOSED BUILDING AT FAIR GROUNDS



Pictured above is the proposed auditorium and community house to be constructed on the picnic and fair grounds in East McKinney. Sponsors of the new building are the Collin County Purebred Livestock Association, of which Riley Boren, is president; the Confederate Veterans and Old Settlers Picnic Association, of which Anthony Geer, of Anna, is president; the Collin County Council of Home Demonstrations Clubs, of which Mrs. Eva Bryan, Lebanon is president, and the 4-H Club Council of the county, of which Miss Sue McDonald, of Alla, is president.

A comittee from these sponsoring groups have had plans and specifications drawn up for a building, 50 by 100, to be used on the fair grounds as a general exhibit building. It will be equipped with a kitchen, and will have a stage, both of which will make the building adaptable for many uses.

Not only will it house exhibits of the farm people of the county, as well as commercial displays, during fair season, but it will be available for programs during the picnic, or for gatherings of the livestock groups, 4-H club boys and girls, and many other community meetings.

The building has been a dream of these sponsoring groups for many years, and is a dire need, especially for housing exhibits to protect them from the weather, as well as theft. On previous occasions rainy weather has ruined many of the displays of merchants and the farm people. Thefts of articles from the booths have also occurred on more than one occasion.

The planned committee expects to present the specifications to the Collin County Purebred Livestock Association meeting here Saturday night at the Jaycee Center, and in due time to the other sponsoring groups, for their approval.

Local Girl To Sing In Treble Choir

A McKinney student at Texas State College for Women, Denton, Irma Speight Williamson, is one of the second soprano voices chosen to sing in the world premier performance of "Stabat Mater", a classical composition by Hungarian composer Ernst Von Dohnanyi. The composition, written for two treble choir and orchestra will first be heard Jan. 16 in Wichita Falls Memorial Auditorium.

Performing groups are the TSCW Modern Choir, Denton Civic Choir with the Wichita Falls Symphony Orchestra, directed by a former student of Dr. Dohnanyi, Frau Daniell.

"Stabat Mater" is the only work ever written for treble choir and orchestra, to the knowledge of Dr. J. Wilson Ebersole, director of the TSCW Musical Department and Modern Choir. The music was commissioned three years ago from Dr. Dohnanyi, resident composer at Florida State University by George Bragg, director of the professional seasoned Denton Civic Boys Choir.

Music is based on the text of a 14th century hymn and was written for the Thursday before Palm Sunday. It is to be performed as one of four numbers in a memorial concert in commemorationy of Motzart's 200 anniversary by the Wichita Falls Symphony.

Miss Williamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bowel Williamson, 618 W. Louisiana, is one of six second sopranos in the Modern Choir to be selected to sing.

Dohanyi's music for the first time blends and matches the voice qualities of three-part treble choirs first and second soprano and alto. The composition, however, is said to maintain the contrast of the voice quality of the young boys with that of the more mature female-voice choir.

A European premier of the work will be held in Liverpool, England in October, 1956. The music is to be published in this country in February and is expected to be a contribution of considerable importance in the music world.

Texas Air National Guard Engaged In Recruit Campaign

A recruiting campaign in seeking to bring the 221st Radio Relay Squadron, Texas Air National Guard up to full authorized strength will open next week. It will last through February.

High school seniors of Garland, Mesquite, Wylie, Rockwall, Richardson, Plano and McKinney will be interviewed by members of the unit in seeking to interest them in joining the unit and thereby fulfilling their military obligation while remaining at home.

The unit, which has its headquarters at the Garland community house, already has been given three and a half acres of land in the Garland City Park as the site for new Armory. The state has approved plans and they are now in Washington awaiting final aproval, according to Major John J. Haynes Jr., Squadron Commander. He said the authorized strength of the unit is five officers and ninety five airmen and that are now vacancies for a Squadron adjutant and airmen in all grades through the non-commissioned ranks. There are fifteen vacancies in the Squadron.

Eligible to join and be deferred from the dratt are young men seventeen through eighteen and one half years old. Qualified veterans are also eligible to join the unit.

The Squadron holds two-hour and one eight-hour training period each month. For attending the men receiver regular pay. They also attend a two week summer encampment for which they also receive regular pay. In addition to pay and allowances, uniforms are furnished.

Tenative site for the coming summer's enmampment is Donaldson Air Force Base in South Carolina. Guardsmen train right alongside of regular Air Force personnel at the encampment.

Here is communications equipment valued at $150,000 available for training personnel of the unit.

Military Personnel Benefits Under Income Tax Law

Military personnel enjoy certain benefits under the income tax law, Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of the Internal Revenue Service in Dallas announced today.

Such items as subsistence and rental allowance, the government's part of the family allowance, state bonus, mustering out pay, uniform allowance, gratuity pay, and National Service life insurance dividends, are not taxable and should not be included on the return.

Lump sum payments received by Air Corps Reserve officers in termination of service under act of June 16, 1936 are not considered mustering out pay and are therefore taxable.

Compensation for services, longevity pay, and reenlistment bonus, are taxable and are usually included in the amount shown on the Form W-2 he explained.

Those persons who complete the long Form 1040 and itemize deductions on page 2 may deduct amounts expended for insignia and attachment for the uniform, loss due to replacement of shortage in accounts not due to negligence, and other deductions allowable to individuals not in the military service.

Items not deductible include auto upkeep, damage to household equipment in moving, depreciation on uniforms, expense of visiting

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH NEWS

AUSTIN, Tex. 19—Mental disorders today represent a real problem, and it is estimated that more than fifty per cent of all hospital beds are filled by persons suffering from mental or nervous diseases, declares Dr. Henry A. Holle, Commissioner of Health.

It thus appears that modern civilization is exacting a terrific toll. High speed living, with its cruel demands upon nature, is responsible for a large part of the trouble. The fact is that significant percentage of the patients entering hospitals for mental disorders are there because of organic or toxic causes.

For example, general paresis is the cause of one-fiftieth of the mental troubles in males now entering mental hospitals. This condition is an organic disease of the brain due to the germ responsible for syphilis. It is a preventable disease. Early and effective treatment of acquired syphilis will block the end results of general paralysis in the insane.

The excessive use of alcohol is responsible for a number of mental disorders, at least in males. Alcohol and syphilis combined are responsible for approximately one-fifth of all the hospitalized insanities. Nevertheless, improper living habits continue to impair mental health in many people. Insufficient sleep, neglect of bodily care and an over forcing of nervous energy are the pitfalls to avoid in this connection.

Nature demands that her fundamental laws be at least reasonbly observed. A constant outraging of the physiological economy takes its toll not only in bodies but in minds also. Mental illness and lesser nervous disorders could be spectacularly reduced if this fact were more generally respected. Training for mental health must be started in childhood as that is the time when prevention of emotional disturbance and promotion of sound emotional health can be accomplished most easily.
